

Plain facts

Having a say about your housing

If you live in a rented house you are called a tenant. As a tenant, it's your right to have a say about the way your housing is run. Ken Simons looked at a project that helps tenants to have their say. This Plain Facts is about what he found out.

There are lots of different ways to have your say.

Some people with learning difficulties need staff to help them live at home. These people often have less of a say in the way their housing is run than other tenants do.

Some services work hard to make sure that tenants can have their say. This can help to make the service better than it was before.