

Policy on Study Costs for Taught Programmes

Definitions

We/Us/Our means the University of Bristol.

You/Your means a taught student (undergraduate or taught postgraduate) registered with the University.

Taught programme means an undergraduate or taught postgraduate programme.

1. INTRODUCTION

This policy sets out our study costs for taught programmes. It clarifies what is included in the tuition fee and what you may need to purchase and/or provide.

Nothing in this policy overrides our duty under the Equality Act 2010 to make reasonable adjustments for disabled students.

2. THE BASIC PRINCIPLE

You will not encounter hidden costs. Any additional costs associated with a taught programme that are not included in the tuition fee or bench fee are outlined in section 3.

Some taught postgraduate programmes charge a bench fee in addition to tuition fees to cover specific extra costs associated with laboratory or field work that is part of a master's dissertation. Such costs will not include academic supervision or administrative support, or normal overheads such as space, IT support and library provision.

Guidance on average costs of living expenses for students is available at:

3. ADDITIONAL STUDY COSTS FOR STUDENTS ON TAUGHT PROGRAMMES

3.1. Clothing and equipment

Apart from items that you may reasonably be expected to own or provide (outlined below), you will not be expected to purchase equipment or clothing that is essential for your programme of study. Some items may be provided on a shared basis and/or you may have to pay a deposit to use such items. You are expected to purchase replacements for any items lost or damaged as a result of wilful misuse.

Personal protective equipment (PPE)

Your school will assess whether you need to wear PPE to protect against specific hazards when undertaking activities as part of your programme. You are not expected to supply this equipment.

PPE may be disposable, shared, used by others at different times or meant for your use only. The school will provide instructions on the use and maintenance of PPE and you must comply with these requirements. Examples of PPE include hard hats, high-visibility vests, laboratory coats, safety goggles, safety boots and anything mandated by public health considerations.

Personal clothing (excluding items required as PPE)

You are expected to provide general personal clothing such as waterproofs, boots and warm clothing.

Faculty of Health Sciences professional equipment

Scrubs are provided, but you may be expected to purchase replacements if you lose or damage them.

You must provide a personal stethoscope, which is a feature of your chosen profession and something that you can expect to use after you have graduated.

Stationery

You are expected to provide your own stationery and basic office equipment (including a calculator, if necessary).

Computers

We provide shared access to desktop computers in University locations (study centres, multimedia centres, libraries and computer rooms). We offer a 'find a computer' service so you can locate the nearest available computer. Wifi is available across the whole campus.

We strongly recommend that you purchase your own personal computer, laptop and/or mobile device to support your studies. Financial help is available to cover the cost of a laptop and connectivity under our Digital equity scheme.

For 2022/23 if you have difficulties in purchasing a personal computer contact student-funding@bristol.ac.uk. They will be able to direct you to suitable technical support or support you to access equipment and/or alternative arrangements where possible.

Guidance on the IT requirements for 2022-23 and links to further support are available at: <https://www.bristol.ac.uk/students/support/it/>

3.2. Field trips

There are no additional study costs associated with mandatory field trips. You may have opportunities to attend additional, optional, field trips; you are expected to cover the costs associated with such trips (e.g. entry fees, travel, accommodation, etc).

3.3. Accommodation and travel

Place of study/exam venue

You are expected to pay accommodation costs, as well as travel expenses for journeys to and from a place of study or an exam venue, with the exception of mandatory field trips.

Placements

If your programme of study includes a mandatory or optional placement, you may be expected to pay the associated travel and accommodation costs. As the number, length, frequency and location of placements varies greatly depending on your programme of study, your school may reimburse or contribute to your costs.

Study abroad/study in industry/industrial experience

If your programme includes a study abroad, study in industry or industrial experience element, or, if you choose to take advantage of any optional opportunities to study or work abroad during your programme, you are expected to pay any associated costs (e.g. travel, accommodation, insurance, visa).

3.4. Books

Our libraries provide the books, journals and other learning materials necessary for your studies, either in printed form or as e-resources. As these are shared resources, we provide copies of high-demand materials in a ratio proportionate to student numbers, and you can reserve items to help plan your reading. Alternatively, you may wish to purchase your own books, and your school may sometimes advise that you provide your own copies for your convenience.

3.5. Costs associated with proving your eligibility to take part in a programme or particular activity

If your programme requires you to be registered with, or be a member of, a professional body, you are expected to pay any associated costs.

You are also expected to bear any costs associated with eligibility to take part in a particular activity; for example, you may be required to undergo a Disclosure and Barring Service check if you are likely to come into contact with vulnerable groups, including children.

3.6. Printing costs

You will not normally be expected to print out electronic material or copy printed learning materials, as we provide access to all necessary study resources, subject to copyright legislation. However, depending on your discipline, you may be offered a certain amount of credit to cover the cost of printing (see below). If you are required to submit coursework in printed form, your school will bear the cost.

Subject to copyright legislation, your school will:

- provide access to electronic copies of all materials where appropriate;
- provide printed learning materials (such as short extracts or readings, but not whole books or chapters) where it is a requirement that you use such printed materials during class or an examination (this does not cover materials that you need to read before class);
- provide printed copies of slides where it is a requirement that you work on printed copies during classes;

- in collaboration with Library Services, monitor the availability and use of both print and e-resources, as well as changes in student numbers or resource use, and increase stock to meet demand.

Subject to copyright legislation, the University will:

- invest in digital literacy – including ensuring the availability of digital resources and providing the requisite training for both staff and students;
- continue the move to e-resources, e-submission, e-reserves and e-books/journals to maximise access to study materials.

The extent to which you use electronic and print resources will vary depending on your discipline. This will also determine the amount of University print credit you are offered (if any) and the volume of paper material provided by your school.

Your school will adopt one of the following models.

- Model A (exceptional): your school will make University print credits available to you as deemed appropriate by discipline, by year of study and in relation to study activities. Printed materials may be provided to ensure all students have access to appropriate resources.
- Model B (exceptional): your school will make available an option to purchase printed sets of materials in addition to the electronic version via a bulk print order scheme (where this is allowed under the University's copyright licence).
- Model C: your school will provide electronic resource packs and the University will support digital literacy for students by providing access to suitable training, software and hardware as necessary.

4. FURTHER INFORMATION AND QUERIES

Any additional costs will be identified in the Programme Catalogue. Further detailed information regarding any additional costs is available from your school.

If you have queries about this policy, please raise them with your student representative/s or school office.

5. FUNDING INFORMATION

The Student Funding Office provides information and advice about funding undergraduate study and postgraduate study.

The Student Funding Office also offers a range of bursaries and scholarships, and supports a hardship fund for students. For a full list of these schemes, please use our Search for Funding facility.

6. COSTS OF GRADUATION CEREMONIES

Any graduand who registers by a given deadline is guaranteed their own plus two complimentary guest tickets to their graduation ceremony. Graduands can apply for one extra complimentary ticket in advance.

A Graduation Bursary is available for graduands who find the cost of hiring a gown is a barrier to attending their graduation ceremony. Priority will be given to students who have previously received financial support from the University.
